CEL PRIDE... WORLDWIDE!!!

In our first official edition of CEL Pride... Worldwide we have four terrific examples of campers and staff showing their camp spirit. From Australia, to Baltimore, to Mexico, to New York it is clear that love of the lake has clearly gone global! If you have any of your own submissions for this super section of the trail please email them to matt@campecholake.com.

While vacationing on the Surf Coast in Australia, SV Program Coordinator Matt Hosking takes time to show his CEL Pride. Younger sister Ellie and family friend Jake were happy to assist!

Meryl Berman sure knows a work of art when she sees one. How could she not take a picture in from of this potentially CEL inspired masterpiece at the Met in NYC!?

Even future Lakers are getting in on the act! Coby and Noah Rinke, sons of alum and camp doctor Michael and former GL Carol wearing their green and gold with some CEL-looking tu-

The New Camper Picnic always revs me up for camp! Excited new campers, excited parents, excited staff, games, names and of course, fuzzies! It is almost like a little tease, because as much as I love it, after two hours everyone goes home. I love getting to practice leading line-up again. After ten months off, you don't just pick it up - you have to practice your "GOOD EVENING CAMPERS!"

What was so awesome was that it was so clear to me why all these kids are coming to Echo Lake - they have such amazing attitudes. Some were able to jump right in, while others took a little time to do so. But it doesn't matter - by the end, we had all of our campers at line-up singing the Tooth Losing song to Ivy Minkoff's dad Rob, who claimed he lost a tooth (not sure about that one), and the Birthday song to all of our May Birthday people!

The weather was so nice, and we all got to run around and meet some new people. What is even better is that there are so many other nice kids waiting to meet and welcome our new campers to Echo Lake - you just won't believe it when you arrive. And hey - if you are new camper and you were not able to make the picnic - no worries. At "The Lake," there is an emphasis on being nice to one another and especially being warm and welcoming to our new campers. But what is even cooler is that Laurie, Brenda, Jacko, JP, the Head Counselors don't even have to tell our kids that. We simply have nice kids at Echo Lake and they do it because that's how they were welcomed when they started camp - and they are excited to share their summer home with you ... so you can make it your summer home, too!

So that is how we roll at CEL. By the time you read this, we will be in Warrensburg overflowing with excitement and counting down the days, minutes, seconds ... I can just see those buses rumbling through the front gate!

We can't wait to see you soon,
Emily, Evan and Tony

Here is my note from Hartsdale as, what with signs of spring, I moved northward from Florida. I look out my windows and see forsythia, lilies, daffodils and I start to get really excited. Yes, they are lovely, but what spring means to me is that it is a great time for weddings, bar and bat mitzvahs, babies being born, sports outside and an all-around celebration of life!

I popped in yesterday to see my grandson Evan Stein who started talking about going to camp - now there is one smart kid. I'm headed up to camp today, as a matter of fact, to orchestrate what I hope will be lovely plants, shrubs and flowers to enhance our spacious and beautiful campus. Wow! 66 summers and still going strong!

I stopped into DC in time to share in the wedding joy of Heather Babby - plenty of camp DNA in those bones. I was surrounded by alums and lapped up every minute of it as I greeted dear friends Laurence Glickman, Robin and Jay Varon, Ellen and Lon Babby, of course, Ken Babby, Jamie and Jeff Schouela, Heidi Cohen Chizzik and brother Adam Cohen. I greeted Rhoda Reisman Alexander, Tali Reisman Resin, Ken Reisman, Debbie Goodman and David Abbey. We are talking several generations here. Well, I said 66 summers, didn't I, and I've never lied to anyone yet.

Yup, gang, it's great to be alive on this particular planet! It is great to know that the best camp family in the world is going to converge on June 25 at the best camp in the world! I'm not being immodest! I'm just telling the truth!

Hey, campers, please finish up the academic parts of your lives in first class shape. Do excellent work. Put those smart shoulders to the wheel and make yourselves proud. Then we can put away the books and have fun, fun, fun all summer. It's all good, gang!

Much love, Amy

T-shirts...check! Sunscreen...check! Water bottle...check! Sneakers...check! Ah, the sweet sounds of packing your duffle bags for camp. It is at this time of year when parents, campers, staff, and even yours truly, are packing up every last important item for camp. Packing your duffle takes a lot of time and care. You don't want to forget anything, you want to make sure everything is labeled, and you want to use every nook and cranny of that duffle bag to fit in all your "stuff." While I understand, and can empathize, with the attention to detail that goes into packing your duffle bags for camp, what I can tell you is that the really important stuff is what you UNpack from your duffle bags at the end of the summer. Obviously when you reopen your duffle bags after camp you will find the t-shirts, water bottle, and sneakers that you originally packed. What I think is the most important stuff that you will "unpack" from your duffle bags is the magic of camp. While it's true that white shirts may come home a little gray, some socks may have gone missing, a pair of shorts may have stains from a mud sliding adventure, that is not the magic of camp either. The true magic of camp comes from the often intangible, hard to put your finger on, but incredibly valuable growth that happens as a result of the camp experience.

When the summer is over campers and staff stand a little taller with faces that glow a little more. Some of this is due to the wonderful time spent outdoors, tons of active fun, and warmth from the sun, but the growth and development is so much more substantial than that, if you know where to look. Camp allows campers and staff the safe, encouraging, empowering opportunities to develop a greater sense of self and to figure out a little bit more about who you are. By trying new things, not being successful right off the bat, and then trying again, campers and staff build self confidence. Being given the opportunity to choose an elective activity, decide what you want to eat during a meal, and figure out how to organize your stuff, campers and staff learn decision making and problem solving. Through meeting new people, living together for seven weeks, and negotiating the ups and downs of friendships, campers and staff build social skills that help them get along better with others. When campers and staff have a cleanup job in the bunk, make their beds, sort their laundry, and practice table manners at meals there is a sense of independence and self assuredness that helps them believe that they are capable of taking care of their own needs. Camp centers around the existence of our camp community which forces campers and staff to think outside of themselves and take into account the group, the team, the family they have at camp. Camp gives campers and staff the self confidence, identity, social skills, and sense of community that allows them to come home a little taller and with more of a glow than when they came to camp. That is the magic of camp.

Now sometimes people may say, "how can parents send their child away for seven weeks?" What those people clearly don't know but our camp parents and staff are smart enough to understand is that "sending a child away" to camp is giving them one of the greatest gifts they could ever receive in terms of their growth and development. It is the confidence that parents have in the gift of the camp experience that campers borrow in order for them to believe that they CAN leave the comfort and familiarity of home to have the amazing experience of camp. Camp is so much more than a duffle bag full of stuff, a game of kick ball, or a string bracelet. Camp is a gift, an education in life skills, a course in independence, an opportunity for development, a class in discovering who you are and maybe even who you want to be, and the ability to live in a supportive community where the central point of who we are revolves around a Fuzzy with a Warm Inner Glow. Camp is a gift for the campers and staff, but parents will not be left empty handed either. Weeks from now when the summer is over, camp songs linger in the air, stories of friendships trickle about, and you are unpacking duffle bags, your gift is that your child has experienced the magic of camp. xoxo, Laurie

As I type this I bet all of you are getting so excited for June 25th! I've got that spring in my step and a smile on my face. The familiar sights and sounds are filling up camp and it's starting to look like the place we all know and love. The nets on the hoops are up, the trees are starting to bloom, and pollen is everywhere! Soon the docks will be in the water, the bleachers will be out, and the green equipment boxes will appear overnight like wild mushrooms. It never gets old seeing camp wake up from a long winter. We have a great crew of people up here already working hard to make sure camp is looking great by the time the buses roll through the front gates.

ADIRONDACK FUN FACT: Did you know that the beaver was nearly hunted to extinction in the Adirondacks? The great loss of the species was attributed to trappers, both Native American and European, who supplied European markets for almost 200 years (1620s to 1820s). Successful reintroduction in the mid 1800's has resulted in a current population that estimated at about 50,000-75,000! In 1975 the beaver was declared the official mammal of New York State!

Have you ever arrived at school, only to realize that you don't remember anything about the drive? At the end of a shower, have you ever noticed that you're not sure whether you washed your hair? Or more important, think back to your last conversation with someone you love: Do you remember the details of what you talked about? For many of us, these examples highlight the fact that we often live on auto-pilot. We have our routines at home & at school & we go through the motions, not truly paying attention to what we're doing. Our minds wander elsewhere & we end up eating without tasting, looking without seeing & talking without knowing what we're saying.

Human beings are blessed with the ability to think about the past, present & future. We spend time reflecting on the past: yesterday's test at school, last week's argument with a friend, or even a happy memory from years ago. We also spend time considering the future: worrying about tomorrow's playoff game, making a mental list of what homework is due or, more happily, thinking about the upcoming summer at camp! Yet, many of us don't spend much time being in the present.

Stop for a moment and reflect on the following questions: Have you been paying attention to the room you are in? What's the temperature? How does it smell? What are you sitting on? Is it comfortable? And yourself: Do you have any aches or pains? Is your stomach full or is it empty? There are many things going on right now in your immediate environment as well as thoughts & feelings of which you probably were not consciously aware. The great news is that you can begin to pay attention to those things in the present moment that you never noticed before through mindfulness, which is "the awareness that emerges through paying attention on purpose, in the present moment, and non-judgmentally to the unfolding of experiences moment by moment"

Why would you want to do this? Well, because who doesn't get stressed, anxious or sad about something? Stop to breathe, be in this moment and recognize that a troubled thought or feeling is temporary and it can pass on like a cloud floating by. If you can be in the moment and appreciate what you are experiencing and feeling you won't have the resources to worry about the past or future. John Lennon had it right when he said. "Life is what happens to you while you're busy making other plans."

When you come to camp next month be ready to be in the moment as much as you possibly can. There are so many magical and amazing moments to capture throughout the summer. I know there are countless things to look forward to...tribal break, Thursday trip days, big trips, special days, the list goes on and on....make sure that you enjoy each of these as they are happening, but don't forget about all of the ordinary moments, too. Stop - take it all in - be present. The next great moment will arrive even if you aren't busy planning it or worrying about it. Time to go pack my bags - I can't wait to see all of you soon!

Hugs, Brenda

What an exciting time of the year with camp just around the corner. One of the rites of passage for any camper or staff is the making of s'mores! And we all know that a key component of any s'more is the shmallow. The question up for debate is burnt to a crisp or golden brown?!? Soooo... Our guest debater will be none other than Ruthie K, 4n4 Trip Leader, who has 18 summers of shmallow experience.

Some of the best things in life happen by accident and my discovery of the burnt shmallow is no exception. When it comes to roasting shmallows, I know a thing or two. I have started many campfires out west on 4n4 over the last few years and made endless amounts of s'mores. My shmallow of choice: ya gotta go GOLDEN BROWN! Lightly toast the shmallow over the flame, or better yet, the hot embers down below. You have full control over how golden your shmallow becomes! When it's nice and toasted, put it on your chocolate and graham, and dig in! Enjoy your roasting everyone!

As a camper, I remember the day I left my marshmallow in the flame just a little too long. As I blew it out I was tempted to start over but decided to give it a taste. At that moment I realized two things. First, the only way to make a shmallow is burnt to an absolute crisp and second, it is the key ingredient to the ultimate s'more.

So which side of the Great Echo Lake Debate do you choose? Is it the roasted shmallow... Is it burnt to a crisp!!!... Whichever it is the most important thing is that you let your voice be heard... because if there is one thing that isn't debatable it's that we all love Echo Lake! -Jacko

Call for Coaches

Do you want to make a difference in a young person's life? Are you based out of the greater CT area? Eager to carry on Morry Stein's dream of helping youth from underserved community's reach their dreams? Then read on!

My name is Lorilee Chien and I work for Project Morry. I oversee the Coach program component for high school juniors and seniors that have grown up through the program. The Coach program is a highly successful mentoring program where adult volunteer mentors make a two-year, one-on-one, personal commitment to a Project Morry participant. Coaches connect monthly with their coachee to work on a variety of things: academics with regard to high school, building a strong post high school plan and or spending time doing social activities that build a strong meaningful relationship. Coaches encourage their coachee to set short and long-term goals. The relationship between coaches and coachees is based on consistency, positive reinforcement, accountability, commitment, respect and caring.

As you know Echo Lake and Project Morry have a special bond and partnership as it was Morry Stein's vision and dream to share the camp experience with children of all socio-economic backgrounds and specifically those from underserved communities. We have young people from 5 different communities and every year we have a particularly difficult time finding coaches for our Bridgeport, CT youth. If you have time, are in the CT area and have interest in becoming a Project Morry coach please e-mail me at lorilee@projectmorry.org and feel free to visit our website for additional information: www.projectmorry.org. We would be honored to have you a part of our camp.

Project Morry is now on Facebook! Simply search "Project Morry" to join our Fan Page. This is yet another great way to get updates on all that is going on in the world of PM!

A Reminder About Electronics at Camp

As the calendar turns to June we wanted to remind you about our electronics policy at camp. The policy below can also be found in the 2011 Parent Handbook. We believe that a valuable part of the camp experience is a child's ability to "unplug" for the summer. We appreciate your cooperation in making this possible.

Electronics/Communications devices: Cell phones, smartphones, digital video players, video games, e-readers (Kindle, Nook, etc), tablets (iPad, Galaxy Tab, iPod Touch, etc), laptops and video cameras are not allowed at camp.

Only specific kinds of iPods are allowed at camp. As of Spring 2011, those are: iPod Shuffle, iPod Nano and iPod Classic (all videos must be removed from the iPod Classic via iTunes before your child arrives at camp). Staff will be checking devices for videos – any that contain videos will be confiscated. To minimize inconvenience to your child, we recommend the iPod Nano. We remind you that camp is not responsible for any damage to these devices.

Any device that is equipped with a Wi-Fi connection or 3g data connection is NOT permitted at camp. All tablets, smartphones, the iPod Touch and e-readers fall into this category.

As always, if you have any questions, please feel free to contact us in the camp office.

The CEL Garden... In Full Bloom for 2011

Not since the 80's has CEL had a garden to call our own. We are excited to announce that, under the green thumb of Emily Stein, we will be bringing this very cool tradition back to "The Lake." Campers and staff will have a chance to help with the growth of the CEL Garden, located down at our Trek area. And that help begins now!

Do you have any ideas for names for the CEL Garden? Can you think of different veggies, herbs, plants or flowers you would like to see planted in our garden?

Please send all your suggestions to garden@campecholake.com

Camp Webinar Now Available Online

On Tuesday, April 26th we participated in a webinar titled "Helping Your Child Have a Successful Camp Experience," as part of the Camp Network. The webinar was hosted by Jay Frankel, Founder and President of True to Life Training, and Laurie Oestreich, a New York City based family therapist whose clients include many families whose children attend summer camp. In order to access the video of the webinar simply use the link below. We plan for this to be the first in a series of webinars that we participate in as part of our continuous effort to provide valuable resources for our camp families.

This summer we will have 42 amazing LITs who will be lead by Lauren Weissbrod, Tara Stoulig, Molly Burke, and Mark Kronenberger. The day was spent talking about the LIT program, inspiring the LITs to be fantastic leaders and role models for camp, and getting them psyched up for an amazing summer.

Our LIT program is a multi-faceted program with many leadership opportunities, including:

EXCITING NEWS FROM THE HEALTH CENTER

We are thrilled to welcome our new Head Nurse, Lois Clark, to Echo Lake this summer! Lois is a terrific lady and she is super-enthused to taking on this new role at camp. Lois currently plays the role of health and wellness “troubleshooter” for the Hudson Falls School District – operating at all their schools as she assists students and families dealing with challenging medical and wellness issues. Lois, who is an RN, has also been a camp Head Nurse before, as she worked at Camp Chingachgook on Lake George for a number of summers. Lois has been so excited to get started, that she actually joined us for our MV Winter Weekend so she could meet some campers and staff! Lois’ daughter Victoria will also be joining us at camp this summer and we are happy to have her, too!

If you have any particular medical issue you wish to discuss with Lois prior to the start of camp, she will be available starting June 6th to discuss those with you either by e-mail or by phone (just call the camp office and Lois will return your call).

The Echo Lake Players Present... Theatre 2011

Your 2011 Echo Lake Theatre Staff is pleased to announce the five very awesome and entertaining musicals that we can't wait to produce with you! So please, Netflix the movies, read the books, and YouTube the music to get familiar with your musical.

The Lower Inters are first to hit the stage with The Emperor's New Clothes. This contemporary "fractured fairytale" features a castle full of characters to Hans Christian Andersen's delightful tale. At 14 years old, Emperor Marcus the Third wonders how he can possibly run an empire. He accepts the credo that "clothes make the man," but soon finds himself the center of a hoax.

Next up to the stage will be the Frosh, the pop culture phenomenon coming to the musical stage, School House Rock Live! The cartoon series that taught your favorite school subjects through clever, tuneful songs is instructing a whole new generation to "Unpack Your Adjectives" and "Do The Circulations," lighting up stages everywhere!

Then we have the Juniors producing the classic, How to Eat Like a Child. This musical romp through the joys and sorrows of being a child is hilarious! Children give 23 lessons in subjects such as how to beg for a dog, how to torture your sister, and how to laugh hysterically. The pace is fast, the tone subversive, and the recognition instant.

The Upper Inters will be performing the huge Broadway hit, The 25th Annual Putnam County Spelling Bee. The competition is intense, the words are hilarious; let the spelling begin! The judges are: a nostalgic former spelling bee winner, a mildly insane Vice Principal, and The Official Comfort Counselor completing his community service to the state of New York!

Finally, the LITs and Senior Village will close this summer's season with the 2011 Benefit Show, Mary Poppins. This musical, based on the children's books and Disney film, fuses an irresistible story, unforgettable songs, breathtaking dance numbers, and astonishing stagecraft. We'll make this musical touch the hearts of everyone in Warrensburg!

We look forward to seeing you in June, when we start our auditions!

Jason A. Coombs - Theatre Head Specialist

Brian Tucker and Kyleigh Vince - Theatre Activity Specialist; Brendan Mcinerney - Theatre Music Activity Specialist

We are looking for books to fill our Laker Library for the Summer 2011! All books should be in good to great condition and be appropriate for readers in 1st to 10th grades. Through the years the Laker Library, masterfully ran by our LIT's, has given campers a tremendous selection of books for them to read during rest hour and flashlight time.

Please feel free to pack your donated books in your camp trunks or carry-on. You can also mail them to camp at the address below prior to arrival day.

New Camper Picnic 2011

On Wednesday, May 11th many new campers and their moms, dads and siblings came out to join us for the New Camper Picnic. With the benefit of some truly terrific weather we had an awesome time!

We had relay races, human bingo, name games, and the mostest. We also had lots of laughs, fuzzies, a few May birthdays to celebrate and we even learned the tooth losing song! There was a tremendous spirit in the air! Helping Tony, Amy, Laurie and Jacko provide a fun time for all our new campers were a stellar band of staff and 2011 LIT's. A big shout out to Drew Berger, Talia Bloom, Ali Chalfin, Alana Deutsch, Ruth Kleinman, Casey Stein, Sarah Stettin, Brian Tucker, Hallie Whitman and Julie Zucker for reaching out to our new campers and helping them feel warm and fuzzy! Great job, guys!

We can't wait to officially welcome all of our new campers to Echo Lake on June 25th!
